

Joan Of Arc, Art Deco, Chryselephantine, D. Alonzo, 1920s

3 500 EUR

Signature : Dominique Alonzo

Period : 20th century

Condition : Bon état

Material : Bronze

Width : 15

Height : 59

Depth : 15

Description

Statue of Joan of Arc, in full armor, standing, brandishing a standard. The figure presents a serene, focused face, delicately carved in bone, contrasting with the metallic surface of the armor. In her right hand, she holds a sword, while in her left, she brandishes the staff of a standard, whose floating flap emphasizes the dynamism of the composition. The armor is crafted with great attention to detail: the elements of the cuirass, the chain mail and the decorative surface finishes are clearly visible. The sculpture embodies the chryselephantine decorative trend, characteristic of the Art Deco style, which combines different materials to create an effect of contrast and luxury. Sculptor: Dominique Alonzo. Style: Art Deco. Creation date: 1920s. Material and technique: chryselephantine (bone and silvered

Dealer

Antiques Urbaniak

Arts et métiers des XVIIIe et XIXe siècles

Mobile : 0048 609 682 083

10 rue Wielka

Poznan 61774

and gilded bronze).Dimensions: 59 cm × 15 cm × 15 cmCondition: good.Dominique Alonzo - French sculptor active between 1910 and 1930. Born in Paris, Alonzo was a pupil of Falguière and exhibited his work several times at the Paris Salon between 1912 and 1926. Alonzo is renowned for the high quality of his work, which is meticulous in every detail, and for his ability to translate the Art Deco style into his creations.