Description

An antique oil painting on cardboard depicting a young officer in an elegant military uniform, attributable to the Lombard school of the second half of the 19th century. The work bears strong resemblances to Lombard Risorgimento painting and the figurative style of the Induno brothers, renowned interpreters of the patriotic and bourgeois sensibilities of 19th-century Italy. The subject is depicted in half-length with a composed pose and direct gaze, in keeping with the style of bourgeois and military portraiture of the Risorgimento period. The dark uniform with silver epaulets, rows of metal buttons, and decorative details evokes the Italian military circles of the Risorgimento period. The painterly rendering highlights an academic style typical of 19th-century Lombard portraiture. The
