Description

Elegant pair of lamps from the Art Deco period or transitional to modernism, featuring a sober, refined architecture blending marble, bronze and cut crystal. Each lamp rests on a 9 cm by 9 cm veined marble square base, carried by delicate soft bronze spinning tops. The whole supports a vertical composition in threaded cut crystal elements, offering beautiful plays of light and a particularly elegant presence. The Mazda-style white opaline shades diffuse a soft, warm light, very pleasant once the lamps are switched on. The overall silhouette evokes certain models in the taste of Jacques Adnet's work, while here presenting a more detailed and sophisticated design than the more streamlined productions generally associated with this designer. The set probably comes from another fine workshop influenced by this French modernist aesthetic. The major interest of this set lies in the presence of a strictly identical pair, an item that has become relatively difficult to find today. These lamps make it possible to compose a harmonious decor in an Art Deco interior as well as in a contemporary or modernist ambience. The two lamps have been used in a variety of settings. Both lamps have been completely re-electrified to today's standards. The choice was made for a sober black cable in the spirit of antique wiring, to preserve and accentuate the retro and elegant character of the whole. They are perfectly functional and ready for immediate installation. Very good overall condition of presentation and conservation. A few slight traces of age consistent with their period. All in all, very good condition. Dimensions: Height: 47.5 cm Base: 9 cm x 9 cm Top diameter of Mazda shades: 16 cm Careful and secure shipping.
