Description

Empire-period gilded bronze clock decorated with Eros playing the harp, resting on a rectangular base richly decorated with foliage, palmettes and amorous attributes in relief. The subject features winged Eros seated beside a lyre, holding his bow, in a neoclassical spirit characteristic of the First Empire. The enamelled dial with Roman numerals is signed "Leinert à Paris", testimony to quality Parisian work from the early 19th century. The set features fine chasing and well-preserved original mercury gilding. The composition is framed by two finely guilloché decorative columns and rests on four toupee feet. French Empire period work, early 19th century. Wire movement. Dimensions: Height: 38 cm Width: 26 cm Depth : 10 cm Condition: good overall condition, wear and light traces of
