Description

An exceptional early 19th-century coffee or game table, a fine example of Florentine craftsmanship, rare for its quality of workmanship and striking visual impact. The top, elegantly veneered in walnut, is embellished with a refined inlaid maple chessboard, perfectly integrated into the surface, a sign of its cultured and convivial intended use. A truly unique feature is the spectacular decoration below, consisting of a sculptural interlacing of finely carved serpents that coil with great dynamism to form the central support. The sculptural rendering, attention to detail, and naturalism of the forms attest to the high level of craftsmanship and neoclassical taste with symbolic accents typical of the period. The shaped base, solid and balanced, completes the piece, lending it stability and further elegance. A piece
