Description

Large Art Nouveau vase Circa 1888-1900 On a colorless satin background a rotating decoration of irises in bloom with their stems and fine flowers and a butterfly. Which is the hallmark of the crystal factory. the decoration is painted with polychrome enamels by hand. The translucent enamels are surrounded by gold and define the decoration. the monogram "STV" in gold for Stumpf, Touvier, and Viollet, is that of the patrons of crystal making from 1888 until the very first years of the 20th century It is in very good condition, with a few scratches from use but which in no way detract from the beauty of the vase, no cracks or chips, intact.
