Description

Origin: New Mexico Era: 950-1450 A.D.

Dimensions: 14 cm diameter x 7.5 cm height A magnificent Anasazi (or Ancestral Pueblo) bowl adorned with a superb decoration of finely chased foliage on the inside. Imperfectly beautiful, this bowl exudes incredible character, palpable energy and profound humanity. Dating from 950 to 1450 A.D., it was made by the Anasazi, also known as the Ancestral Pueblos, known for their complex society, troglodytic dwellings and exquisite utilitarian pottery. This bowl is a perfect example. Provenance: Canadian collection, 1990s
