Description

Art Deco group of a mother & child terra cotta signed Ugo Cipriani early 20thCreated by Italian artist Ugo Cipriani (1887-1960), this double "Terre cuite d'art" bust from the Art Deco period (1910-1939) depicts a mother with her child, in a moment of maternal tenderness.Figured in flamed terra cotta stamped "Terre cuite d'art" & signed on the terrace, this group is imbued with an "in-between" style, at once deeply neoclassical, the Art Deco movement rubs off on this design, between realism & stylistic geometry.Stable, sturdy, its form will make this objet d'art an asset in an interior design honoring motherhood! I don't recommend putting it outside, unless it's sheltered from wind, rain & frost (ex: Veranda.)Fast & careful shipping in France, Europe & Worldwide.Dimensions-> Height: 33 cm-> width:
