Description

Very fine pair of early 19th century Empire armchairs, crafted in solid mahogany. The armchairs are of high quality workmanship and feature details typical of the period: clean lines, sturdy armrests and richly carved lion heads and feet..It's above all the carved details that give the armchairs their distinctive character. The lion heads on the armrests and the lion feet are decorative without being overdone. The dark mahogany contrasts nicely with the light upholstery.The upholstery has been renewed and covered with high-quality fabric from Zimmer & Rohde. The armchairs are therefore not only decorative antiques, but also highly usable seating for the living room, boudoir, library or reception rooms.A special pair for anyone looking for classic furniture with a strong presence.Material:
