Description

We are pleased to present this splendid 19th-century Italian oil painting on canvas. The painting depicts a young woman sitting outdoors on a stone terrace. The woman is shown in a three-quarter profile, facing to the right, with her large blue eyes gazing at the viewer. A gentle smile conveys serenity and composure. Her hair is chestnut brown, shiny, and straight on top of her head, gathered in long strands on either side of her face, in keeping with the hairstyles of the era. She wears a long, ivory-colored day dress, light and refined. A few pieces of jewelry highlight her aristocratic social status, without excess but with great elegance: a gold cameo brooch adorns the collar at the center of her chest, and a gold bracelet adorns her left wrist. A wedding ring is clearly visible on the finger of her left hand, underscoring her social status as a young married woman. Her hands are delicately clasped in her lap, and her right hand holds a small book with a dark red cover. The woman is seated in a wooden armchair upholstered in bright red, a style characteristic of the Louis-Philippe period (first half of the 19th century). A bright blue scarf is draped over the armrest of the chair. The background depicts an outdoor landscape with delicate hues, complementing the work without distracting from the subject of the portrait. This wonderful portrait is of excellent artistic quality, with delicately blended brushstrokes. The light illuminates the figure from the front, highlighting her fair complexion and the whiteness of her dress against the darker tones of the background. The artist has included several personal touches that allow us to imagine the personality and life of this young woman. We have identified some characteristic elements, but as you observe this painting, you too will be transported into the life of a young woman of the 19th century. A wonderful painting that will enchant your guests! If you love antique portraits, you absolutely must add this splendid painting to your collection. The painting is perfectly enhanced by a splendid gilded wooden frame with relief decorations. The frame has undergone some restoration work on the corners, which, however, does not compromise the overall aesthetic.
