Description

Neoclassical sculpture in gilded wood depicting an eagle with outstretched wings, Italy, 18th century. A common motif in both sacred and secular art, the eagle--an ancient symbol of strength and power in the Roman Empire--serves in the Neoclassical era as a possible homage to Napoleonic rule. A high-quality sculpture with well-defined plumage and a beautiful original gold leaf finish. Good condition, minor signs of age. Dimensions Wingspan 45 cm H 20
