Description

After Ambrosius Bosschaert the Elder (1573-1621) Floral still life with insects Charming modern, decorative reproduction inspired by the famous 17th-century Flemish still lifes, based on a composition by Ambrosius Bosschaert the Elder, a major figure in Dutch floral painting. All the refinement of these prized compositions can be found here: an abundant bouquet in delicate tones, the presence of a dragonfly and a Vulcan butterfly, and an elegant dark background that highlights the colorful richness of the flowers. The ensemble is presented in a handsome gilded stucco frame with sculpted decoration, giving it a highly decorative presence despite its intimate format. An ideal piece to bring a warm, classic touch to an interior, either on its own or integrated into a hanging mixing artworks and
