Description

This large carved paneled overmantel, from the Transition period (18th century), marks the evolution from the exuberant rococo of Louis XV to the sober neoclassicism of Louis XVI.

Combining graceful movement and geometric balance, it embodies the apogee of French refinement on the eve of the Revolution... Read more Condition: the water-green lacquer has a slightly cracked patina, typical of antique pieces, which adds to their charm. Some gilding may be worn. The mirrors, though slightly oxidized, retain their original shine.LEARN MORE
