Description

An important 18th-century Neapolitan oil painting on canvas, attributed to Pietro Bardellino (Naples, 1732-1806), depicting a tender scene of family life between a mother and her young son as he reads. The work is characterized by a refined sensitivity to light and an intimate composition of great elegance, typical of 18th-century Neapolitan painting influenced by the Rococo style. The warm light gently illuminates the faces and hands of the figures, emerging from a dark background with an intense theatrical atmosphere. Particularly noteworthy is the painterly quality in the rendering of the expressions, drapery, and lighting effects, elements that evoke the figurative style of Bardellino and the great 18th-century Neapolitan tradition. Dimensions: 102 x 77 cm (with frame) 100 x 72 cm (without
