Description

Pair of Orientalist busts in polychrome terracotta. Elegant pair of Orientalist terracotta busts, depicting one male and one female figure dressed in rich traditional costumes. Inspired by the fascination with Oriental and North African themes so prevalent in the European decorative arts of the late 19th and early 20th centuries, these sculptures convey a refined Orientalist taste through expressive faces, supple drapery and fine modeling work. The female figure stands out for its jewelry, delicately staged hair and decorative headdress, while the male figure features a noble expression, emphasized by a traditional striped headdress and textured clothing. Their polychrome finish enhances the depth of detail and gives the ensemble a warm, decorative presence. Resting on matching bases, these two
