Description

A silver pepper mill in the shape of an artichoke. The handle is crafted as a stem and features a small snail shell and several cut leaves. The mill's well is cleverly concealed within the finely articulated globe of the artichoke. A single hinged petal on the globe can be pulled back to insert the peppercorns. By Missiaglia, Venice, Italy, 20th century. Hallmarked with the silver standard, city, and maker's marks. Gross weight: 271 g
