Description

This elegant mahogany library step stool, made in England, seduces with its fine craftsmanship and the nobility of its material. Its rotating structure is organized around a finely molded central shaft, crowned by a carved pine cone, a symbol of refinement and prosperity. The four fan-shaped steps, perfectly balanced, follow a harmonious spiral rise, revealing a warm, deep mahogany grain that testifies to the quality of the wood selected. The whole rests on a stable, elegantly proportioned base. It also features a plaque fixed to the top step entitled "For Display Only", revealing that this stepladder will be used solely for decorative purposes for your books, decorative objects or plants. This stepladder combines utility and aristocratic charm, becoming today a collector's item sought after for its
