Description

An elegant early 19th-century (circa 1810-1840) English Regency/Guillaume IV library table in richly grained mahogany. Resting on elegant turned legs fitted with original brass castors and linked by a turned brace, it features four drawers and magnificent carved scrolls at the corners, giving it a refined architectural allure. The warm patina of the mahogany and the wood grain give it exceptional depth and character. An elegant and timeless piece, ideal as a desk, library table or coffee table. Dimensions: Width: 152 cm Depth: 74 cm Height: 73 cm Condition: Good antique condition, showing traces of wear, patina, marks and imperfections consistent with its age and use, as illustrated in the photographs.
