Description

Nineteenth-century school, in the taste of Jean-Antoine Watteau (1684-1721)Le ConcertCharming composition inspired by the poetic world of Watteau's fêtes galantes, depicting a group of young figures gathered around a musical scene.In the foreground, a young woman dressed in a light satin dress is seated, holding sheet music in her hands. Behind her stands an elegant female figure wearing a broad hat. To the right, a young musician in shimmering costume tunes or plays a theorbo, while a child in the center of the composition observes the scene with vivacity. The ensemble stands out against a clear sky, in a delicate, refined atmosphere imbued with grace and lightness.The subtle palette, dominated by pastel tones, as well as the softness of the modeling and
