Description

Two large-format African batiks by the artist Babo, signed and dated 1977. These richly decorative compositions depict two majestic leopards, rendered in the expressive, vibrant style characteristic of late 20th-century African textile art. Rendered in the traditional batik technique, these works feature rich tonal contrasts and organic patterns, emphasizing the elegance and strength of the animals. The paintings are presented in their original period frames, combining brass and wood, a refined decorative detail typical of the 1970s. Impressive in size and visual impact, these two works will add an exceptional touch to contemporary as well as eclectic interiors. Signed: Babo Date: 1977 Origin: Africa Period: Late 20th century Technique: Batik on textile Frames: Original brass and wood
