Description

Renaissance walnut carved chest bench - 19th century
Important richly carved walnut chest bench, Renaissance / Henri II style, made in the 19th century. The back features a remarkable high-relief decoration of broad foliate scrolls framing a central floral basket. The carved uprights are surmounted by turned grips, while the baluster armrests bring elegance and balance to the whole. The front opens onto a vast storage chest and is adorned with molded panels adorned with carved floral decorations. The seat upholstered in a fabric decorated with gallant scenes emphasizes the furniture's warm, decorative character. Very fine quality of carving, beautiful antique patina and remarkable presence. Ideal in an entrance hall, a living room in an old mansion or a collector's interior.
