Description

Central Asian rug, circa 1920. Antique Khotan rugs originate from the ancient city of Khotan, located in the Central Asian region formerly known as East Turkestan or Samarkand. Its ideal location between China, Europe and the Mediterranean made it a dynamic trading center, with significant textile production, particularly of silk and carpets. Thus, these carpets were strongly influenced by Asian and Persian cultures, blending Chinese motifs with a rich palette of earthy colors, reds, golds, browns and greens, typical of classic Persian carpets. Ancient Khotan carpets feature a characteristic long, narrow shape, with motifs usually composed of detailed borders, floral motifs, vines and vases..Style:classic / art deco / other / bohemian / vintageRugs: Khotan / HotanDimensions: 283 x
