Description

Small regional Directoire walnut sideboard - Late 18th century
Charming small solid walnut regional sideboard in the Directoire style, late 18th century work, opening with two molded doors on the front. This piece features a sober, balanced line characteristic of Louis XVI - Directoire transitional furniture. The molded-panel front, rectilinear uprights and small, straight legs give it a simple, authentic elegance. The interior reveals a simple, well-balanced design that's typical of Louis XVI furniture. The interior reveals a storage space with central shelf. Beautifully crafted in solid wood with traditional joinery and a lovely patina of use. The interior reveals a storage space with a central shelf. Featuring compact proportions, the table is easy to assemble. With its compact proportions
