Description

Sumptuous Very Large Persian Kashmar Carpet with "Vase and Birds" Patterns - 380 x 290 cm Description: The city of Kashmar, located in the province of Khorassan, is renowned for its carpets of unrivalled finesse and ornamental richness. This model, probably dating from the mid-twentieth century, is a perfect example of this tradition. The central field, in a deep, rich blue, is adorned with an intricate, refined polylobed medallion, from which floral scrolls flow. The design is distinguished by its perfect symmetry and profusion of detail, including motifs of elegant vases (signs of prosperity) and stylized birds (birds of paradise or 'Simurgh', symbols of wisdom and protection). These elements are harmoniously integrated into an intertwining floral and scroll structure, creating a lively, balanced composition. The borders, also highly worked, repeat the vase and bird motifs in a chromatic palette dominated by turquoise blue, madder red, burnt orange and cream, framing the central field with magnificence. The rug is in fairly good overall condition, with vibrant colors. Its size makes it an ideal piece to magnify a large living room, formal dining room or library, bringing warmth, character and a touch of history. The rug is in fairly good overall condition, with vibrant colors.
