Description

Attractive matching pair of small burrwood chests of drawers in the Louis XVI style. Second half of the 20th century. Ideal dimensions for use as a bedside table or occasional piece. They feature a classic, refined design harmoniously blending the warmth of wood and the nobility of stone. They are topped with a thick, intact marble in shades of pinkish-beige, orange and shades of gray. They open with two drawers in the front, fitted with drop handles in patinated brass. The bottom rail is beautifully cut and carved with drapery motifs and scalloped garlands. They rest on a tapered fluted base. Good overall condition. Please note old traces of insect bites, furniture treated preventively. Don't hesitate to contact me for more information, and add us to your favorites to keep up with our latest news!
