Description

This oil on panel signed G. Boulard unfurls a harbor scene of great atmospheric gentleness, where the motionless sailing ships seem suspended in a moment of absolute calm, their patinated hulls and slender masts reflected in tranquil water of subtle nuances. The ochre facades with their red and blue roofs, bathed in diffused light, create a warm setting that evokes the authentic charm of a small, characterful port, while the tall lighthouse in the background introduces a discreet verticality, reinforcing the depth of the perspective. The palette, dominated by blues, velvety browns and grays, lends the whole a hushed, timeless harmony, revealing the painter's mastery of the art of capturing the variations of the sky and the vibrations of the water. The work, both decorative and evocative,
