Description

Superb Iranian Ghoum rug in kurk wool and silk, made circa 1970, testifying to the refinement and exceptional craftsmanship of the workshops in the city of Ghoum, a mecca for prestige Persian tapestry. This elegant piece is distinguished by its extremely fine decoration: a deep midnight-blue field entirely animated by a luxuriant network of scrolls, stylized flowers, birds and plant motifs delicately enhanced with ivory, celadon and gold touches. The salmon-colored border adds a beautiful luminosity and harmoniously underlines the richness of the design. The kurk wool velvet, renowned for its softness and superior quality, combined with silk inlays, gives this rug a silky texture as well as subtle reflections changing with the light. The extremely precise knotting reveals high-quality craftsmanship and remarkable
