Description

A large, beautiful round stamped plaque, formerly gilded, depicting the grape harvest in the Land of Canaan. Two men, dressed in antique style, carry an enormous bunch of grapes, astride a branch, placed on their shoulders. Remains of gilding on the peasants, the first of whom carries a sword. At the rear, a very young, beardless man also carries a huge bunch of grapes. A large palm tree on the left, a few trees in the distance at the foot of a steep cliff. 9 mounting holes all around. France (?) , 17th century.
