Description

Charming 19th-century stone sculpture of a stylized sun, originally designed as a wall outlet for a fountain. Finely sculpted in relief, the piece features an expressive solar face surrounded by radiating motifs, characteristic of the traditional ornamentation of European gardens and architecture of the period. Made in sandstone with a beautifully patinated surface and a rich natural patina acquired over time, the sculpture has a strong decorative character and authentic antique charm. Its compact dimensions make it ideal as a wall fountain, garden decoration or architectural accent, both indoors and out. Origin: Europe Era: 19th century Material: stone Dimensions: Diameter: 32 cm Condition: Good condition, showing traces of age-related wear, erosion and patina, testifying to long exposure to the elements.
