1930s Clear Crystal Chandelier with Pale Yellow and Amber Accents. This six-light Italian chandelier is in good condition; it has been restored and rewired to European standards and works perfectly with six E14 bulbs. The structure of this antique chandelier from the first half of the 1900s is made of brass, featuring six curved arms with a square cross-section flanked by a double row of hand-strung crystal beads and ending with additional beaded decorations in clear crystal with amber drops and burnished brass bobeche. The classic design of this pendant is accentuated by the central stem in pale yellow crystal, featuring overlapping elements shaped like small vases, adorned with protruding decorations both in the middle section--from which garlands with spear-shaped pendants
