Description

Combination chest of drawers forming a dressing table and writing table in inlaid wood after a model by Jean-François Leleu (1729-1807) in the Transition style. Beautiful ormolu ornamentation. This rectangular piece of furniture, whose top slides back to reveal a writing top sheathed in tan leather, features two large side drawers that can slide to the front, these drawers are fitted with a lid and the interiors are upholstered in beige damask fabric. The writing tablet opens to reveal a dressing table with mirror. This multi-function piece of furniture is in very good condition. The National Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C., owns a copy of this piece of furniture, which dates from the 18th century. DIMENSIONS: 0.80m x 0.50m and 0.78m high. Delivery by quotation.
