Description

Antique-style pair of temples depicting Caesar and Vercingetorix. Gilt bronze, pink and black marble Grand Tour souvenirs. These elegant miniature columned architectures evoke neoclassical temples inspired by Roman antiquity. Each figure stands beneath a small temple formed of four columns resting on a marble base. These objects were destined for curiosity cabinets, libraries or refined fireplace trimmings in the Empire and historicist taste. French or Italian work circa 1850-1880. Height: 30 cm Good overall condition
