Description

Suite of three brocaded silk and lampas altar fronts, richly adorned with liturgical and vegetal motifs in an elegant, 18th-century-inspired rocaille décor. The panels feature a radiant central medallion framed by broad scrolls, blooming roses and bunches of grapes symbolizing the Eucharist. Each panel features a radiating central medallion framed by broad foliage, blooming roses and bunches of grapes symbolizing the Eucharist. The sacred compositions differ from one textile to another: - the radiant triangle bearing the sacred tetragrammaton - the mystical pelican feeding its young, symbolizing Christ's sacrifice, - the Pascal Lamb resting on the Book with the seven seals. Fine weaving combining shades of gold, powder pink, green and violet. The borders are highlighted with a substantial
