Description

This impressive group of four monumental sculptures represents the allegorical figures of the Four Seasons. Masterfully carved from Italian white marble in the late 20th century, these sculptures are inspired by the classical statuary of European gardens. Each figure embodies a season through its symbolic attributes and graceful drapery, reflecting the timeless elegance of neoclassical sculpture.Rendered in finely carved white marble, these sculptures feature refined anatomical modeling, balanced proportions and a strong decorative presence. Their monumental scale makes them ideal for large interiors, architectural settings, formal gardens or landscaped estates.The luminosity of Italian marble, combined with the classical inspiration of the compositions, lends the ensemble
