Description

Gien earthenware cake or aperitif display Persan model late 19th century Created by the painters & earthenware artisans of the Manufacture de Gien (Loiret, France), this cake or aperitif display is a fine example of late 19th century French quality. The Manufacture de Gien is an internationally renowned institution in French earthenware & tableware. Founded in 1821 by English industrialist Thomas Edme Hulm, with the ambition of creating earthenware using French techniques, with an English style. Issued from Gien's golden age at the end of the 19th century, this rare model known as the 'Persian' features painted polychrome wildflower motifs, with an Art Nouveau-inspired, organic, flowing shape, it's a guarantee of quality between functionality (its handle) and the beauty of the
