Description

Rare set of 4 Boris Tabacoff-style "Sphinx" cantilever armchairs (circa 1970) for Mobilier Modulaire Moderne (MMM) or Mobilier de Paris. Sublimate your interior with this exceptional set of four space-inspired cantilever armchairs, designed in Boris Tabacoff's inimitable style for Mobilier de Paris. These armchairs are emblematic examples of French avant-garde design from the 1970s, combining sculptural chrome bases with organic, fluid seating. Iconic silhouette: The chrome "C" base, with its dramatic curved lines, creates a striking cantilever effect, giving the impression that the seat is floating in space. Spacey aesthetics: bucket seats feature Tabacoff's signature openwork backrest, offering a light, airy silhouette from every angle. Luxurious textures: upholstered in sumptuous, shimmering taupe velvet, these armchairs harmonize perfectly with mirror-polished chrome. Designer/Style: Boris Tabacoff / Mobilier de Paris (Attributed) Era: 1970s Materials: Polished steel/Chrome and velvet upholstery Condition: Superb vintage condition. The chrome retains all its shine and brilliance, with a slight natural patina. The velvet covering is perfectly preserved, with no significant wear, tears or stains. Structurally sound and incredibly comfortable. Collector's note Sets of four chairs in this condition are increasingly rare. This particular model, with its cantilevered "Z" or "C" structure, is a must-have for collectors of Pierre Cardin, Maria Pergay and mid-20th-century French modernism. They're perfect for exceptional dining room chairs, or as high-end occasional seating in a refined living room.
