Description

Important and spectacular gallery coffee table, an emblematic model by Claude DALLE published by Maison ROMÉO in Paris in the 1970s. This remarkable creation features a thick glass top resting on two kneeling Nubian figures in carved wood, finely patinated in black-brown tones and richly enhanced with gilding. The figures, with their powerful, theatrical modelling, support the top in an expressive posture typical of Claude Dalle's decorative work. A key figure of French design in the 1970s, Claude Dalle developed spectacular furniture with neo-Baroque and Hollywood influences for Maison ROMÉO, which is today highly sought-after by collectors and decorators. This coffee table perfectly illustrates the glamorous, audacious spirit of the Faubourg Saint-Antoine of this period, blending decorative sculpture and prestige furniture. A characterful piece ideal for a contemporary, eclectic interior or vintage 20th-century design collection. We would like to point out that the glass is original and has two small chips. A rare and decorative piece, in the spirit of the great glamorous French designs of the 1970s.
