Description

Elegant sculptural representation of a male torso, carved in richly hued Italian red marble. Inspired by the fragmented aesthetics of classical antiquity, this piece highlights the strength and harmony of the human body through simplified volumes and refined anatomical modeling. The deep tonal variations and natural veining of the red marble lend the sculpture remarkable visual depth and decorative sophistication. With its timeless classical inspiration and modern sculptural presence, this work fits perfectly both as an interior centerpiece and in a collection of classically inspired objects.
