Condition : Quelques manques

Material : Plaster

Description

This sculpture depicts a kneeling nativity scene shepherd and is a painted plaster work from the late 18th century, dated specifically to 1791. Description: The work depicts an elderly shepherd with his hands clasped in adoration, one bare knee, and a large cloak draped over his shoulders. Origin and Production: This is a Tuscan piece, traditionally attributed to the Lucca area, famous for its historic production of plaster figurines. Signature and Date: The initials of the master craftsman, M. B., are stamped on the back of the sculpture along with the year of creation, 1791. Condition: The object appears "well-worn," characterized by a splendid antique patina with evident losses and flaking of the surface polychromy, which attest to its authenticity and age. Dimensions: The statue is approximately 58
