Description

Large mid-century rosewood veneer desk with polished finish, probably of German origin, circa 1960. Rectangular forms with straight lines. Exterior re-varnished with a magnificent rosewood veneer and hand-polished with shellac. Light maple veneer interior. Protruding square writing surface with open compartments below. Three drawers on the left, one of which is lockable. A lockable door on the right, with a shelf inside. Lockable hinged door at rear with open compartment. 2 chrome keys included. Free-standing model, supported by 4 stainless steel feet. Original "Echtes Holz" (Real Wood) sticker on the inside of the door. This sticker was used in the 1950s and 1960s in Germany to distinguish real wood furniture from cheaper productions. Dimensions: H 77 cm / 30.31 in
