Description

Neorustic carved oak bookcase - early 20th century
Charming neorustic-style bookcase in solid oak opening with two glass doors. It features a fine quality of carving with decorations of rosettes, stylized foliage and worked moldings, typical of French regional furniture of the early twentieth century. The right-hand cornice is carved in the style of the early twentieth century. The straight cornice with slight overhang overhangs an elegantly balanced facade. Glass doors reveal several interior shelves providing ample storage space for books, collectibles or crockery. The panelled lower section and curved legs add character to the ensemble. The shelves are adjustable, thanks to racks. Beautiful warm oak patina and very attractive decorative presence, ideal in a country chic interior, family
