Important Louis XV period commode tombeau in marquetry circa 1750. Very elegant Louis XV period commode tombeau richly inlaid with precious woods and adorned with sumptuous gilded bronzes. This remarkable piece of furniture opens with three large drawers in a curved front, embellished with superb geometric marquetry with butterfly-wing decor and contrasting frames, typical of 18th-century Parisian furniture. The commode rests on cambered legs terminating in powerful ormolu sabots. The jambs are adorned with magnificent, finely chased female masqueron falls. The top features a beautiful veined marble in brown and beige tones, perfectly embracing the furniture's flowing forms. The abundant, high-quality bronzes elegantly underscore the generous curves of this ceremonial
