Description

Bronze sculpture depicting a young boy captured in the moment he is being pinched by a crab, a subject particularly popular in Verist sculpture between the 19th and 20th centuries. The work stands out for the extraordinary expressiveness of the face and the naturalness of the pose, elements that lend vitality and realism to the composition. Although unsigned, the quality of execution and stylistic approach suggest it is the work of Giuseppe Renda. Excellent overall condition, with normal signs of wear consistent with its age.
