Description

Murano glass pendant lamp attributed to the renowned Barovier & Toso workshop, "Medusa" model, made between the 1940s and 1950s. A refined example of Venetian craftsmanship, featuring a hand-crafted twisted clear crystal structure, embellished with brass details and an elegant central element in blown glass shaped like a vase with an internal light source. The lightness of the composition and the quality of the craftsmanship give this chandelier a sophisticated and timeless presence, perfect for both classic and contemporary settings. A rare and decorative piece, an expression of the artistic excellence of the post-war Murano glass masters. Period: circa 1940-1950 Provenance: Italy Materials: Murano glass, brass Condition: excellent vintage condition, with slight signs of aging consistent
