Description

Oil on canvas. 73 x 87 cm (with frame). Superb composition by André Gardin, a painter active in the 20th century, whose work is part of the French figurative tradition. His work, sensitive and attentive to regional atmospheres, bears witness to a real attachment to the landscapes and villages of central France. Here, he depicts the village of Saint-Yvoine, in Auvergne, with a luminous palette and balanced contrasts that render both the softness of the houses and the strength of the surrounding relief. The vivid, colorful brushstrokes evoke the regional Post-Impressionist school, with a search for sincerity and truth in the rendering of the place. Work signed lower right and dated 1947. Very good condition.
