Description

A refined table and travel clock with an alarm function, crafted by the renowned Swiss manufacturer Zenith during the Art Deco period (circa 1930). This small masterpiece of micromechanics and decorative arts is in excellent condition and comes complete with its original case. The square case in gilded metal is entirely decorated with champlevé enamel. The case rests on a molded gilded metal base supported by four ornate feet. High-quality Zenith hand-wound mechanical movement, featuring an alarm complication. In working order. The clock is housed in its original contemporary brown leather case with a velvet and silk interior. The case features two opening front doors and an original, fully functional mechanical snap closure, designed to protect the clock during transport and
