Description

Ceramic sculpture by Marnix Hoys A cheerful, anthropomorphic figure with foreshortened or absent limbs and highly expressive, stylized facial features. Stoneware clay decorated with rough glazes and dark, crackled metallic accents. This creates an organic, timeless patina reminiscent of ancient or archaeological objects. This winged figure strikes a balance between literal form and deep symbolic meaning, inspired by nature. Born in Bruges in 1943, Hoys is renowned for his unique contribution to modern sculptural ceramics; notably, he directed the Sint-Lucas ceramics workshop in Ghent for much of his career. 26 cm wide, 16 cm deep and 40 cm high.
