Description

Louis XV Venetian-style lacquered wood window in soft shades of verdigris and cream, delicately enhanced with hand-painted floral decorations. It opens with two curved glass doors, with flowing lines typical of the rocaille style, offering a beautiful view of the interior. The whole rests on four elegant curved legs, underlining the lightness and grace of the piece. The interior, painted harmoniously in a blue-green tone, is fitted with several shelves for displaying objects, glassware or knick-knacks. The uprights and crosspieces are finely scalloped, while the panels are embellished with discreet floral garlands, adding a refined decorative touch. Antique hardware is present, with central lock entry. Twentieth-century style work in the taste of the eighteenth
