Description

Louis XV Transition marquetry window. Light wood, elegant and sober, opening with a glass door on the front. The upper part is composed of a wide framed glass panel, offering a good view of the interior fitted with two adjustable glass shelves. The inner uprights are fitted with racks, allowing the height of the shelves to be adapted as required. The belt is embellished with discreet inlaid elements, while the slightly curved base rests on arched legs, bringing a touch of lightness to the whole. The piece is topped with a marble top, adding elegance and refinement. Lock escutcheons and ornaments in bronze or brass delicately underline the lines of the piece. French work from the late 19th or early 20th century. Dimensions: Height: 142 Width: 78 Depth: 42 Condition: good overall condition, with a few
