Description

Le Corbusier's LC4 is much more than a chaise longue. It's a modern design manifesto signed by three visionaries: Le Corbusier, Charlotte Perriand and Pierre Jeanneret. Created in 1928, this masterpiece of the Bauhaus movement has left its mark on 20th-century furniture history. Its timeless design, combining functionality and aesthetics, makes it a must-have reference for art and design lovers. This version from the 2000s embodies the perfect balance between sleek form and anatomical comfort. The shiny, durable chrome-plated steel frame brings a touch of modernity and refinement to any interior. The natural cowhide leather upholstery in black and white hues gives this chaise longue a luxurious yet timeless character. The LC4 is designed to adapt to all body shapes. Its adjustment system allows you to adjust the inclination of the backrest and footrest, offering optimal comfort for relaxing or reading. The removable cushions, stuffed with dense foam, guarantee perfect support, while adding a touch of softness to the whole. This model is ideal for contemporary spaces, industrial lofts or minimalist interiors. It fits perfectly into a living room, bedroom or even an office, adding a touch of elegance and sophistication. The chrome-plated LC4 from the 2000s is a sought-after piece. It combines the historical heritage of modern design with a high-end finish, making it a lasting investment for collectors and enthusiasts of exceptional furniture. L'inconfondable Chaise Longue offered in the mottled upholstery version, in 2 colors ranging from dark brown then white. An armchair that has made design history and retains its charm over time. At the side of the masters, Cassina re-edits furniture, always deeming it "current" insofar as the "form", clear and essential, allows it to take on new "meanings" in every era, according to the changing times and environments for which it is intended. Le Corbusier's Cassina collection is characterized by a few emblems that are true symbols of design and furnishing: Chrome-plated structure, Variable tilt with bright chrome-plated steel shell; Black steel pedestal; Black leather headrest. The chaise longue is still produced by Cassina and costs around 8,000 euros list price, depending on the country. The version in question is a production dated around the early 2000s. The conditions speak for themselves, it has seen little use and can be considered to be in good condition. A timeless icon and among the most sought-after of the moment.
